The European Union support for culture in Bosnia and Herzegovina comes to life in many ways through the Sarajevo Film Festival (SFF).

Moreover, the festival plays a vital role in fostering personal and professional growth for young individuals to develop their skills and advance their careers in the film industry.

Amongst them are the Young European Ambassadors (YEAs), who participated in film screenings and inspiring conversations with producers and actors from the region and the world. Making the transition: from students to information providers

First, they attended the workshop, then they became information providers!

Our super talented Young European Ambassadors participated in a lengthy learning process. They attended courses on Media and Information Literacy to address important issues like misinformation and fake news.

In 2023, they became actual educators, sharing their knowledge with younger generations. Quite a feat we wanted to celebrate. Bravo, everybody!
Hint hint: we suggest you keep following us. More workshops are being organised around the region.
